Nine Fully Developed And Three Suspicious Cases Of Yellow Fever Appear.

STEPS TAKEN TO FIGHT THE PEST

Fresh Cases At New Orleans Fewer In Number, But Deaths Are More Frequent--Rigid Quarantine At Cairo.

Natchez, Miss., Aug. 28.—Yellow fever has a foothold in Natchez which it may require weeks to shake loose. Nine fully developed and three suspicious cases were discovered yesterday and panic has spread throughout the city and over much of the state. The city has been cut off from communication with the outside world, and steps have been taken for stamping out the disease at once, but it is feared a hard fight is ahead.

How the infection reached here is not known, as the city has been tightly bottled up with shotgun quarantine ever since the situation at New Orleans developed, but it is presumed the plague was brought across the river by some negro who eluded the quarantine guards.

Situation at New Orleans.
New Orleans, La., Aug. 28.—A remarkable contest is shown in the last report of the Marine Hospital service. The cases reported are smaller in number than on any day since the fever broke out and the number of deaths larger.

While conditions in the city continue to improve, and the officials seem to have the situation thoroughly under control, discouraging reports continue to come in from the country districts. The fight between the physicians of this city and the health officers continues to grow warmer day by day, and it is now practically certain that in order to restore peace both the presidents of the state and the city boards of health will have to go.

UNRULY INSANE MAN CAUSES EXCITEMENT

Ed Kinch, Incurable Patient from Belmont, in Janesville Short Time This Morning.

His hands tightly held by a pair of steel cuffs and arms firmly gripped by two officers, Ed Kinch, an insane man, caused considerable comment and excitement on the crowded platform of the St. Paul railway depot this morning about half-past ten o'clock by his incoherent ejaculations and his struggles to free himself and "go back home to Belmont." Through the aid of the railroad employees, Kinch was led by the officers to believe that the Madison passenger was the train for Belmont and it was with difficulty that his two guardians kept him from rushing madly to the forward coach. He was in charge of D. W. Watson, sheriff of Lafayette county, and his deputy, Link Bryson, and was being taken to Mendota for temporary keeping. Kinch was bold enough to state that he would dash for liberty should one of them leave for a moment and his actions at the time made some believe he was going to attempt escape as circumstances were. The man's mind has been diseased for some years and his one thought is that his brothers, sisters, father and mother have been murdered and that the slayers of these are following him closely and seeking his life. Kinch was formerly a farmer near Belmont, but became slightly demented. He worked as a day laborer for a time and then was sent to the state hospital. Found incurable he was placed in the Iowa County asylum. This is but about thirty miles from his old home and he escaped from the place of confinement. The last time he secured freedom he was handcuffed and roamed wildly in the woods near Belmont several days before being captured. Though not violent the entire time he is considered dangerous and people near Belmont were in fear until he was finally captured by Deputy Bryson and placed in the jail at Burlington. Last Friday while confined in his cell a pigeon entered the bastle through an open window and made friends with the man. It staid with him during the remaining hours of the day and roosted that night on his breast. In the morning it was allowed freedom but returned after a short time, seeking entrance to the prison. Kinch and any number of people in Burlington believed the bird was sent from the Almighty but do not attempt to interpret the omen. Kinch has no family, was never married, and will be taken to Mendota for a short time. From there it is thought he will be transferred to a hospital for incurables in the northern part of the state, where he is unfamiliar with the surrounding country and where a patient of his state can be more properly held.

K. OF P. TEAMS IN BASEBALL CONTEST

At Athletic Park This Afternoon—The Game Was Called at 3:30.

At Athletic Park this afternoon the Janesville and Clinton K. of P. teams are engaged in their fourth contest on the diamond to determine whether or not the best nine won the previous two out of three games. Cal Broughton came in from Evansville to hold down the catchers position and spoke hopefully of Janesville's chances. The game was called at 3:30.

When Labor Did Not Tell.
A home missionary who visited Sing Sing prison recently took occasion to have a heart to heart talk with one of the convicts. "Don't you know, my friend," said he, "that crime never brings success? It is only achieved by hard labor." "I did six months of it at a stretch once, and I didn't come out no richer than I went in."

Buy it in Janesville.

Uncle Sam—If I could get rid of you pests, I'd have less yellow fever in my system.

EXTRA SESSION IS NEEDED FOR CANAL

President Roosevelt and His Advisers Believe They Can Accomplish Much.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., August 28.—Whether there will be an extra session in November, President Roosevelt alone knows. Little can be accomplished by the two weeks' extra session, it is pointed out by Congress leaders, but the President and his advisers believe they will accomplish quite a little in the extra two weeks. Early legislation is needed for the Panama Canal, and the administration also intends to make a strong representation for traffic rate legislation, and for the Federal regulation of insurance companies. These two subjects promise to take up much of the winter, and it is doubtful if the kind of legislation demanded will be attained. Some men are advising the President to come out boldly for the election of United States Senators by the people, as the most direct means of bringing the railroad lobby in the upper house to a realization of the future, should any of its members fail to carry out the people's behests. Decent senators feel keenly the opprobrium the public visits upon the Senate these days, and they believe the indictment and conviction of Burton of Kansas, and Mitchell of Oregon was largely responsible for this loss of prestige by this highest legislative body.

Delegates from all parts of the country are present. After the business of the union is transacted there will be receptions and other amusements for the guests.

Land Opening in Utah.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Salt Lake City, Utah, August 28.—Today is the day for drawing for nearly 7,000 homesteads in the Utah Valley. Widespread interest has been in the West, and the railroads have been packed for some time past. In the hopes of getting there first, all those desiring land must be registered, and then they are allowed to pass into the reservation, and select their homes. Mrs. Isabel Miller, a widow, was the first to be registered.

SOCIALISTS CALL ASSEMBLY A JOKE

Consider Convocation of Russian Parliament as Imperial Poasantry.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Berlin, August 28.—The Russian Emperor's decree convoking a National Assembly was published in Germany last evening, and is analyzed by the newspapers of today. The conditions existing in the empire of her next-door neighbor are probably as well understood in Germany as in any outside state, yet opinion is as varied regarding the organic change in the Russian system as there are political groups. The papers, published by a powerful party organization, which is assisting financially and by agitation, the socialist party in Russia, mock at the decree and call it an imperial joke. Emperor Nicholas, designed to show those struggling for constitutional liberty how little he cares for their aspirations. They assert that a constitution providing for 150 voters in such cities as St. Petersburg and Moscow is to be laughed at.

NO HOPES OF PEACE ARE EXPERIENCED

Witte Announces That There is No Hope of a Peaceful Settlement Now.

Portsmouth, Aug. 28.—M. de Witte this morning was asked about the report that the President was authorized by Japan to waive all questions of indemnity and sell half of Sakhalin at a redemption price to be hatched by a commission of representatives of neutral European powers, and said: "That is merely an incorrect version of what I explained a few days ago. It is an attempt of Japan to get an indemnity under another name. Russia rejected it." The crisis of the peace negotiations is not yet passed. Although many messages have passed between the envoys and their governments the announcement is made that nothing has arrived to change the situation. The spokesman for Witte and Muray says there is no hope of peace.

Miss Anna Cox returned Saturday evening from a two weeks' visit in Buffalo and Troy, N. Y., and Hamilton, Ont., with relatives and friends.

BOLKELEY AGAINST FEDERAL CONTROL

Aetna President Says States Not Nations Should Look After Insurance.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Hartford, Conn., August 28.—United States Senator Morgan C. Bulkeley, who is president of the Aetna Life Insurance Company of this city, and who is supposed to represent the insurance interests in the senate, says he is opposed to the bill for Federal control of insurance companies proposed by Senator Dryden of New Jersey. Senator Bulkeley says he will see President Roosevelt, and ask him for a conference on the subject before he makes any recommendations to Congress. The Senator says federal control is unconstitutional. "The supreme court," he said, "has declared that insurance is no part of interstate commerce and that federal supervision is unconstitutional. I suppose I differ in opinion from some other insurance men on the subject, but I do not favor federal control of insurance. Insurance companies do not suffer any more now than they would if they were controlled by federal authority. State insurance companies are improving all the time. Federal control of banks has not proved a success."

CHINESE BOYCOTT MUST BE STOPPED

The Chinese authorities state that they will take energetic steps to stop everything of an illegal or disorderly character, but that they cannot stop the boycott.

BITTER FIGHT SEEMS CERTAIN

Chicago Printers And Employes Have Lined Up For a Gigantic Struggle.

AN EIGHT-HOUR DAY THE CAUSE

Six Hundred Workmen In The Windy City Expect To Be Involved, Though The Trouble May Spread Broadcast.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Chicago, Aug. 28.—Chicago Typographical Union No. 16 arranged for a bitter struggle against the Typothetae.

An assessment of 10 per cent was levied upon the wages of all members and the international officers were requested to ask all typographical unions in the cities of the Middle West to call sympathetic strikes.

The object of the printers, they declare, is to head off the plan of the Typothetae to fight one union after another with a view of crushing them. The battle will begin today. President E. R. Wright, Organizer John C. Harding and a committee will visit the various employers of the city and ask this question:

Demand Eight-Hour Day.
"Will you sign an agreement to work your employees eight hours after January 1, 1906, present conditions to remain until that time?"

Wherever a negative answer is given the printers employed there will go called out on strike.

Thirty-Seven Offices Involved.
According to the union officials about 400 or 500 printers will be involved in thirty-seven offices in Chicago. That is based on the number of employing printers who are members of the Typothetae. The latter has declared against granting an eight-hour day next year and has prepared to introduce the open shop in retaliation against the printers for advancing the shorter workday proposition.

MRS. TAGGART TAKES THE STAND TODAY

Says She Loved Her Husband When First Married—Was Very Happy With Him.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
Wooster, Ohio, Aug. 28.—Mrs. Taggart entered the court this morning prepared to take the stand. While she waited the attorneys, opponents, engaged in a controversy over papers on file at the war department, Wertz and Smizer called each other liars and the court threatened to punish them for contempt. Mrs. Taggart took the stand. She was cool and composed. In answer to questions she said: "I'm 35 years of age. I was born and raised in Chicago. I am the daughter of John Manville and adopted daughter of Mrs. Culver. Mother died when I was small. Mr. Culver was a total abstainer and I was brought up that way. I attended Sunday school and received a musical education. I first met Captain Taggart at my sister's home at Highland Park. He was then stationed at Fort Sheridan. We loved each other. I'm sure it was a love match. We were married at my mother's home in Chicago in ninety-three. After the marriage I went with my husband to Plattsburgh barracks and mother furnished the home. I first drank beer at Plattsburgh. I was always happy there. I then moved to Fort Thomas, Kentucky. I first knew Captain Rither when he was an enlisted man. As a friend and an officer's son he was allowed to call in citizen's clothes. After he was commissioned he became a great friend of my husband and Captain Taggart loved his company. Our home was a gathering place for young people. I went everywhere we were invited. That was not even a subject of conversation between us. The captain was ambitious and I tried to help him advance."

Mrs. Taggart said that when she joined her husband in the Philippines after a long separation he was a changed man. She thought the hardships in the tropics had injured his brain. He was so jealous that innocent happenings became enormous offenses in his mind. She treated "Billy" Taggart as she would any brother or sister of the captain, but the Orrville gossip misinterpreted her kindness and fed the captain's mind with suspicion.

RYAN TELLS WHY HE BOUGHT EQUITABLE

Says It Was Merely In Justice to the Policy Holders That He Took Hold

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
Seattle, Wash., Aug. 28.—Thomas F. Ryan, the New York financier, who recently acquired the control of the Equitable, is here today, and says, "My acquisition of the stock of the Equitable and the persuasion of Morton to take the presidency is a public duty which any number of men would have undertaken had they understood the consequences of a further disension among the old officers and directors. I happened to have a better view of the situation than others; that is all. We insist upon a public investigation of the Equitable and all other insurance companies in justice to the policyholders. The federal government should have some supervision over insurance as well as it has over national banks. The Equitable is sound as the bank of England."

Forty Years Ago.

Janesville Daily Gazette. Monday, August 28, 1865.—A New Car Coupler.—We have been shown a new car coupler for which Mr. G. C. Campbell of this city has a patent. It looks like an excellent and a practical thing.

The Blind Institution.—A correspondent for the Milwaukee Sentinel has the following paragraph about the Institution for the Blind. So far as Mr. Little and his assistants are concerned he might have added very justly and properly that not only the Board of Visitors, but every one else who knows them speaks highly of them.

"This beneficent institution is having a vacation at present, but we took a survey of the building under the courteous ciceroneage of Mr. T. H. Little, the superintendent. The asylum has had fifty-eight pupils during the past year, and its capacity for usefulness is soon to be increased by the completion of a new workshop and the rebuilding of the west wing, which is in a state of delapidation that renders its occupancy dangerous. The building which is being erected for workshops and dormitories, is a fine three story edifice at the west of the main building, the work of completing it is something over $3,000. It has already cost several thousand.

"The annual expense of the institute have been about $19,000 for the past two years. This amount will be considerably diminished when the building shall have been completed. The affairs of the institute have been under the management of Mr. Little for the past four years. He is highly spoken of by the Board of Visitors sent at various times by the legislature, as are also his corps of assistants."

City Items.—A horse belonging to J. T. Wright, which was supposed to have been securely fastened in the barn last night, obtained access to the oat bin, and then got out, and it is presumed drank his fill of water and as a consequence was found dead this morning near the railroad track.

Mr. L. E. Patten also lost a horse on Saturday from the effects of a kick from another horse.

There is a great dearth in the city of good servant girls. A small ship load would find immediate employment at good wages. If they do not come along pretty soon, however, the ladies will have become used to, and so enamored of, their housework that there will be no chance for Bridget. Hurry right along then before it is too late.

A Card.—As a great many people are disappointed in regard to the failure of the late tournament of the Firemen's Association, I am authorized by the State Association to give the reasons for the same.

"Why didn't more companies bring their engines?" is a question asked by almost everyone, of which the following extract of a letter will clearly answer:

"Dear Sir:—Your favor rec'd. I think you are mistaken. Two dollars and fifty cents per day per man! Too steep. The last time we were in Janesville (two years ago), we paid 80 cents per day, now you ask $2.50. Our men want to come bad, but cannot stand that pressure, for they are all laboring men."

I have received more of the same kind, and would here say that at the last hour the hotel keepers opened their hearts and came down to $3.50 for the two days. But this was too late to inform companies. Companies which had agreed to come, and for which I had partly made hotel arrangements, wrote and telegraphed me on Monday and Tuesday that they could not come and pay such hotel bills. Hence the reason.

I feel very sorry for not having a large gathering, but the hotel keepers of Janesville have the responsibility. Hoping that this explanation will be satisfactory, I am,

Very respectfully,
JOHN C. SPENCER.

FASHION NOTES

Everyone is on the qui vive to see what the openings of the countresses will show in the way of autumn modes. The shops have, with their usual promptness, put forth their novelties in the way of fabrics and trappings, but that is not all. The woman of fashion wants to see into what models the modistes are going to construct them.

To be sure the latter have their plans well laid, but, claiming that their models have been copied and sent broadcast before they themselves had time to deliver them, the ultra-smart countresses for the past few seasons have withheld their new creations until the last moment before putting them on view.

That the season is to be an extravagant one is conceded—"cela va sans dire," the modistes say with an expressing shoulder shrug. Materials, no matter whether heavy or light, are graceful and supple, and only the fabrics intended for tailored frocks have wearing qualities to recommend them. Materials for house dresses and evening gowns are as filmy as the weaver can produce, with elaborations which leave a smaller margin for profit than ever for the countresses, although they increase her bills appreciably.

The careful dresser will this season, more than ever, pay attention to the study of harmony. The safe rule is to follow nature; the most exquisite combinations are seen in beds of pansies or nasturtiums, and these are tints which will be in fashionable demand. One or two modistes, admitting their ingenuity have been taxed to the utmost to supply the demand made upon them for novelties in color schemes, have taken to raising miniature flower beds conservatory fashion in their parlor windows, from which they draw inspiration. Seldom does the patron suspect the cause of the beautiful blooms which they rapturously admire, but their marvel at exhaustless ideas of their countresses.

For dark women there are beautiful shades of blue, brown and yellow found in the bluet, the heart of the ox-eye daisy and the buttercup. With these can be combined the white of the lily, the red of the geranium and the varying shades of green found in the foliage of all.

The blonde woman uses black, brown, mauve violet and certain shades of blue, and sticking to these colors as the fountain of her wardrobe soon makes it harmonious and distinctive.

A dozen periods may meet in the ultra-modist costumes, but to be strictly come if fast, they must meet upon pleasant terms and form a harmonious whole. The adapter must have the artist's understanding and the historian's intimacy of the customs of earlier eras, or the results are apt to be disastrous.

One of the latest outgrowths of the fashions is the semi-tailored gown. The skirts of these gowns are as correct in line and finish as the tailor's art can make them; while the jackets or coats are exquisitely made, being more or less elaborate. Worn over dainty blouses they are becoming and appropriate for almost any occasion short of the dressiest.

All sorts of mixtures and plain colors are found among the new materials which include improved mohairs, voile lustre, silk figured solennes, tartan suiting, novelty tweed, Lanne, chiffon and radium velvets and ever henrietta, which has been revived, more beautiful and lustrous than ever. Checked suitings seem to be the only one whose fate is held in the balance, although some of the shops are showing them in multitudinous variations. Those upon which Dame Fashion has smiled most broadly are the invisible plaids with rather distinctive hairlines in some of the fashionable colorings.

Checked silks, preferably in large checks, are used under semi-transparent wool fabrics with good effect, and the leading color of the silk is used in the trimming of the gown. For instance a very sheer blue voile made over a large blue, grey and green checked taffeta foundation, has pipings of green and embroidered trimmings of blue and green with an occasional cabochon of grey in crocheted design.

These small toques, that are in such favor abroad for hats that are not expected to conform strictly to costumes of formal in fact, are among the prettiest of new designs. The crown in the illustration of black velvet ribbon, chenille and satin braid, all deftly interwoven after an intricate pattern. A soft roll of black panne velvet makes the brim and this is centered with a thick and fancy ruffling of velvet ribbons, countless loops forming this dainty effect. There is a sharp upward tilt to the brim in front, and a fancy wing in white and pearl gray is tucked into a dent at one side of the front. A made bow of the piece velvet is used at the back, with the wired ends falling flat upon the hair in the back.

COMING Attractions

"The Forbidden Land." The new comic opera, "The Forbidden Land," will be presented at the Myers Grand, matinee and night, on Monday, Sept. 4. It had a very considerable success in Chicago during an all summer run, and also met with the warmest and most unstinted praise of the New York critics during its engagement there last season. The New York Herald said that "the jokes have an appearance of freshness, the music is timely and the audience was carried along with the play." The New York Tribune said that its quality was overwhelming. Its success in other cities has been equally as pronounced.

"The Lyman Twins." One of the most enjoyable performances of the season will be seen at the Myers Grand Monday, Aug. 28, in the appearance of The Lyman Twins. Brothers the famous twin comedians and a large company in their new elaborate musical comedy "The Rustlers."

This superb production far surpasses all others in which these clever young comedians have yet appeared, being supported by some of the clearest comedy entertainers today before the public. The production is a revelation in beautiful scenery, pretty costumes, a dainty chorus, sweet music, clever dancing and a wonderful display of electrical effects. This is said to be one of the finest musical comedy productions today before the public.

LAND INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITY.—La Crosse Co. Secure Built Bldg. Property at Low Price—Foreclosed Sale To Satisfy Estate—200 acres ranch tract in Dunn county, North Dakota, first to sell in a block to settle the estate of the late D. M. Stewart. This land is in township 143 of range 94 in what is known as the Knife River country. The river passes through the land and affords a perpetual water supply. The land is well grassed and soil of a fine quality underlies several portions of it. There are exposures of coal along the Knife River and at two different places in the township. This is one of the most prosperous parts of North Dakota, as the districts of the settlers in the banks of Taylor, Dickinson and Glendene will show. 1000 acres of land adjoining this land was sold last season at $10 an acre, and I offer this for a quick deal at $4.50 an acre. This is a snap for an investor, but won't last long.

This land is in a locality where money can be made in farming and ranching. The large ranches are being broken up, except where the parties own the land they use and many settlers are coming into the country and large crops of wheat, oats, rye, barley, flax, millet and corn are being raised. G. E. Zuercher, who has owned the tract here offered accumulated over $30,000 in the past 12 years and his brother, Paul, whose place is two miles distant has done equally as well. Both came there as poor boys at the time.

The Banker (I am immediately south of this land) is one of the best in western North Dakota. $100,000 cash will handle this deal. For further particulars write or call on

PREPARING FOR SCHOOL OPENING

TEACHERS AND PUPILS GETTING READY FOR WORK.

THE SPECIAL EXAMINATIONS

To Be Held Wednesday and Thursday
—Where the Teachers Spent Their Vacations.

Teachers and pupils of the public schools of Janesville are now preparing for the reopening next week Tuesday, September fifth. The instructors, who have spent the summer vacation away from the city, are beginning to return and scholars, some with regret and others with joy, are counting the days until they again take up their studies, after ten weeks of freedom from text-books and the routine of learning.

Examinations to Be Held
Wednesday, August 30, examinations will be conducted in the high school building, for those pupils in the graded schools who have during the summer time been studying texts on which they failed during the year of 1904-05. The number who will write at this time will probably be between thirty-five and forty. The number never before having exceeded the latter figure.

Several certificates held by teachers in the graded schools have expired and examinations for those who must have these renewed to continue their work will be held Thursday of this week. Those as usual will be given by Superintendent Buell.

General Teachers' Meeting
All the instructors in the schools are expected to be in Janesville next Monday or before and a general meeting of the teachers will be held at four o'clock on the afternoon of that day. It is the final conference among the pedagogues before school opens and at this the last instructions from the Superintendent will be given.

CURRENT NEWS NOTES.

Held Business Meeting. Four assistant superintendents of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company were in the city Saturday and held a business meeting in the Metropolitan office in the Hayes block. Those present were William J. Tanshouer of Madison, John Kortendick of Watertown, Samuel Van Atta of Portage, and Joseph W. Tunstead of Beloit.

Thirty-Sixth Crop. Thomas McCann, whose farm is on the Milwaukee road about three and a half miles from Janesville, has raised his 36th crop of tobacco. Mr. McCann says that this will be his last as he is over sixty and is getting too old to look after it properly. He has sold this year's crop to Sanford Severn.

Farming in Canada. "Up in Canada, around Winnipeg, where I have a homestead, they grow great crops of wheat," said Zachariah Simmons, who is again filling the soil of Rock county. "It comes up to your shoulders and it looks like from a palace car window. Land is fertile and cheap—but hold on—once every seven years or oftener there comes a snow-storm in August and the grain freezes in the shock. Greatest sight you ever saw, the machines working in the snow to save what is left of the wheat. It is a great country for Donkubors and Indians."

SMALL-POX IS IN VERY LIGHT FORM

But Many People Have Been Exposed
by Art Francis and Others—Edna Wheelock Taken to Hospital.

Since there has been a smallpox situation in Janesville the health department has been on the lookout for a man named Art Francis, a horse-trader who was known to have the disease and to be at large. Some days ago Edna Wheelock, age 30 years, drove to Watertown in a covered wagon with Francis and another man. She contracted the disease from him and returning to Janesville the middle of last week again took up her residence with a family of seven in one of the upper apartments of the Ogden block on East Milwaukee street. On Saturday the young woman was removed to the detention hospital by Health Officer McCarthy and the rooms in the Ogden block were thoroughly fumigated. The children have all been vaccinated. Francis made himself known today and was taken out to the detention hospital for a bi-chloride bath. His face is badly pitted and the eruptions on his hands and other parts of his body have not entirely healed. Francis has been camping on the farm of Otto Herbig. The latter has recovered from the disease and was released today. The girl has it in a mild form. Indeed, none of the sufferers as yet have been sufficiently ill to be confined to their beds. Mr. and Mrs. Kolb, quarantined at 107 Galena street, are said to be recovering rapidly.

TENTED CITY OF THE ADVENTISTS

THE PAVILION, AND A HUNDRED DWELLINGS NOW PITCHED.

MEETING WILL HELP CITY

Much Food Will Be Purchased from Local Stores—First Program
Wednesday Evening.

Tent pitching in Palmer's grove, north of the Hospital on Washington street, continues steadily and the appearance of the place since taken possession of by the Seventh Day Adventists is somewhat more pleasing than usual. The workers sent in advance to prepare the camp for the annual state meeting, to be held from August 30 to September 11, have been busy men and will soon have the canvas city in readiness for occupancy and the visitors will find everything to their comfort. The score of white abodes, dotting the grove here and there among the trees, present a delightful picture.

One Hundred Forty Tents

The large pavilion for the services in English is very near the street and to the north of this occupying similar positions in relation to the street are the auditoriums in which will be conducted programs in the Scandinavian and German tongues. The children and the youth are not overlooked, a tent in which exercises especially for them will be held having been erected for each. One hundred dwellings are already up, and forty more will be put in place before the close of the week. These tents are laid in streets and numbered and it will be possible to locate campers by their addresses.

Benefit to Janesville

In speaking of the conference Secretary R. T. Dowsett said: "We find the business men of Janesville very willing to help us and with their cooperation we will be prepared to open our work on time. With the exception of our Sanitarium foods which we get direct from the manufacturers in Battle Creek, Michigan, our entire food supply will be purchased from the local stores. To feed the crowds we expect at the restaurant and to sell from our grocery store to the campers who wish to prepare their own meals large amounts of various staples will be necessary."

Opens With Song Service

At quarter after seven Wednesday evening the first act of the conference will occur. This will be a song service lasting about a half hour. The singing will be largely by the audience but an organized choir will lead and there will be some special music. This choir will be comprised of between twenty-five and thirty trained voices and will be directed by Professor M. E. Serna of Collegeview, Nebraska. The regular worship and formal meeting of opening will be at quarter of eight. Elder William M. Covert of Marshfield, president of the Wisconsin organization of Adventists, will preside and speak. It is thought probable now that services will be conducted in German Wednesday evening but the Scandinavian exercises will not be commenced immediately.

National Officers Coming

Within the last few days Secretary R. T. Dowsett of Milwaukee, who is in charge at the grounds, has received letters from several men prominent in the Adventist church stating that they will be here for the camp meeting. Among these are Elder C. B. Thompson of Washington, D. C., national superintendent of the Young People's Work; Elder J. H. Evans of Washington, D. C., national treasurer of the organization; Elder C. M. Reynolds of Kansas City, Kansas, now president of the Kansas state conference; and Dr. C. P. Farnsworth, superintendent of the sanitarium at Madison.

New Officers to Be Chosen

Early in the meeting, some morning this week, the annual election of state officers will take place. The newly chosen leaders will not immediately assume their duties but go into office after the close of the conference here. Those who will be in charge during the meeting are the present officers, as follows: President, Elder W. M. Covert of Marshfield; Secretary and treasurer, Elder R. T. Dowsett of Milwaukee; state missionary secretary, Elder N. P. Neilson of Oshkosh; Executive committee, Elders W. M. Covert, R. T. Dowsett, N. P. Neilson, F. F. Peterson of Baraboo, C. J. Hermann of Antigo, H. R. Johnson of Cambridge, and Dr. C. P. Farnsworth of Madison; superintendent of Sabbath and church schools, Elder L. A. Reed of Bethel; superintendent of the Library League, Elder H. W. Reed of Oshkosh; Elder L. A. Reed will not be present, having accepted a position in the state of Washington and gone to take up his duties.

OLD SOL'S TOTAL ECLIPSE

Awe Inspiring Phenomenon as the Moon Obscures the Sun—Path of Eclipse Will Reach From Manitoba to Persia—Its Flight Across the Atlantic Like a Cannon Ball's

The Corona a Thing of Weird Beauty—Many Expeditions on Way to Advantageous Points of Observation—Views to Be Taken by Automatic Photographic Telescopes

It is not every year that can afford the luxury of a solar eclipse. For that reason, if for no other, 1905 can crow over her less fortunate neighbors. Long will she be remembered, at least by the astronomers, for a total eclipse of the sun is a thing that the astronomers literally go miles to see. For the purpose of observing the one that occurs on the 30th of August they are going thousands of miles, in fact. Some of them are traveling to Labrador, some to Spain, some to northern Africa and some even to Egypt. Not only so, but they are to take with them much finer apparatus than was ever before used for a like purpose. There will be a number of expeditions from the United States and others from every leading nation of Europe. Old Sol will have so many telescopes pointed at him that day that there is no wonder he will hide his face behind the moon. He is too old to be particularly modest, but such persistent staring would disconcert even the most ancient.

The scientists, on their part, expect to find out things. For example, they anticipate learning whether there is really a planet inside of Mercury or not. That little world has been doing eccentric things that have led some to believe that there is another little world still nearer the sun, pulling at her orbital skirts, as it were. Two astronomers out in Colorado said they Root is now in Labrador, and it is believed he is on the ground for the purpose of viewing the eclipse.

Outside of the Americans, Canada will send an expedition to Labrador, as will also the governor of Newfoundland, who is something of a scientific bug himself. Then England will have several bunches of observers out, as also will Germany. It is not stated that the Kaiser will attend any of these, though how he can let such an opportunity pass is more than the ordinary man can understand. He has done pretty much every other stunt, and why not an eclipse?

From Manitoba to Persia.

The path described by the total eclipse will reach from Manitoba to Persia. It will start at sunrise in the western Canadian province, thence will sweep eastward at the rate of 2,000 miles an hour across the British dominions, will cross Labrador, will speed like a cannon ball over the Atlantic, crossing Spain about noon; thence across the Mediterranean it will skirt northern Africa, gradually diminishing its speed as it approaches the equator, and thence across Egypt it will disappear at sunset in Persia.

The path of the total eclipse will be about 167 miles wide, and its duration at a given point will be three minutes and forty-five seconds. It will require quick work to take the required laborious preparations have been made for the present solar event.

The partial eclipse may be seen for a distance of about 2,000 miles on either side of the belt traversed by the complete shadow. It is the partial eclipse that will be visible in the United States. In the extreme west it will probably not be seen at all, or at least only for a very short while at sunrise. In the central portions of the country it may be observed for a longer time, still at sunrise. In the east it will be visible shortly after sunrise. At New York, for example, the sun rises at 5:24 on Aug. 30, and the partial eclipse is scheduled to appear at 5:52 and will remain till 7:30. It will be necessary to be up with the early birds and early worms to enjoy the spectacle.

One of the most interesting phenomena of the partial eclipse is the disk shaped patches of sunlight that shine through the leaves of trees. It is a law of light that when passing through an incandescent its shape is similar to that of the body from which it proceeds. Moonlight is scarcely strong enough to reveal this effect, but when the sun is shadowed into a crescent the result is startlingly apparent.

Chinese as Eclipse Predictors.

It has not always been possible to predict eclipses so accurately as at present. There has been some sort of attempt in that line from time immemorial, but in the old days the solar prophets, like some others, came to grief. Nowadays we do not kill the weather forecaster who goes astray in his predictions, however much we should like to do so, but in other times the mistaken foreteller of things to come did not get off so easily. There is a story of two Chinese astronomers, named Hi and Ho, who failed to predict an eclipse, and, as a consequence, when the sun refused to give his light, the people, the emperor along with the rest, were scared into a blue funk. The royal nerves were so racked, in truth, that their possessor concluded that his state of nervousness should be shared by the two astronomers, whereat he notified them that he would have their heads chopped off as soon as the executioner got around to them.

Warned by their sad fate, another Chinese astronomer thought he would be on the safe side and predicted two eclipses that never came off. He was promptly imprisoned by the then reigning emperor, but neatly got out of it by writing a book wherein he set forth that the eclipses would have come along on schedule time except that the virtues of the emperor so appealed to the divinites that rule such matters that the said divinites had the affair postponed, wherein we see that the Chinaman is a natural diplomat.

Thrashing by Electricity.

A novel thrashing scene recently occurred on the farm of August Broerman in the west part of Cuyahoga county, O., when George Heinfield with his force of men continued thrashing grain for Mr. Broerman until 10 o'clock at night and all by the light of a number of electric lamps, the current for which was produced by a dynamo driven by the engine while the other machinery was being operated, says a special dispatch from Wapakoneta to the Cleveland Plain Dealer. An employee of the electric light plant at New Bremen installed the dynamo.

Rosen's Reason.

[Baron Rosen of the Russian peace commission is provoked at being followed about by an army of camera friends.—Current News.]
I'm weary as can be-sky of the crowd of camerists
That never, never, day or night, from vigilance desists
I've had myself snaphotted and go-dukkedovitch!
Until I fear I'll overcrowd my small historic niche.
I can't step out to take a stroll to stretch my tired legs
But hosts of shutters swift are clicked by squeezing rubber eggs;
I can't lift up my hat to greet a comrade or a friend
But some confounded camerist has caught my graceful bend.

At night as I put out the light to tumble into bed
A flashlight in my room explodes—I'm frightened almost dead
Then in some sheet next day I'll read: "Above is Baron Rosen as we caught him disheveled."
I cannot frown or yawn or stretch, I cannot speak or smile;
But—click! A cut with caption you can read at half a mile.
And even now—in me 'tis said; 'twill make the public laugh—
Some day will strike of this my mood set forth on photograph!

I'm weary as can be-sky of the mob of camerists—
The vampire throng that never from its vigilance desists;
I'm tired of "Rosen's eyebrows," of "Herr Rosen's whiskered chin,"
Of "Rosen, as this picture shows, has hair that's rather thin."
Of "Rosen's hand is hairy, as this photograph denotes."
Of "These are lips of Rosen, who for peace or warfare votes."
I can't step out to take a stroll and stretch my languid legs
But hosts of shutters quick are clicked by squeezing rubber eggs!

Bakers' Marks

There is a story of an old lady who made up a batch of mince and apple pies.

Wishing to be able to distinguish one kind from the other she marked the mince pies T M for "tis mince" and the apple pies T M for "taint mince."

The baker's marks on the ordinary run of bakery products are of little more value for purposes of identification than the marks on the old lady's pies.

But HERE is a trade mark that really identifies—that enables you to distinguish the world's best baking—the Biscuit, Crackers, and Wafers made by the NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY. This trade mark appearing in red and white on each end of a package guarantees the contents to be of highest quality—pure, clean and fresh. To learn something of what this trade mark means try a package of either of the products mentioned below.

A Solar Mystery.

Then the corona is something of a solar mystery. Some have thought it a substance and have named it coronium. Others have regarded it as only a phenomenon of light. Whatever its scientific constitution, it is a thing of weird beauty. Sometimes its streamers shoot out for millions of miles. At others it is star shaped. Then it runs like a rim of fire about the shadow of the moon. It is only visible at the time of a total eclipse; hence the anxiety of the astronomers to photograph it and study it at their leisure.

Practically all the instruments used this year will be photographic telescopes. The sensitive plate is much more reliable than the human eye. Not only so, but these photographic telescopes have been arranged to work automatically. One would not suppose that a cold blooded scientist would have ordinary human emotions. Perhaps some of them have not. It is related of one well known astronomer, who had headed many eclipse expeditions, that he never had time to see an eclipse he was so busy "observing them." But this is not true of others. So marvelous is the phenomenon that the scientist is forgotten in the man, who stands gazing in open-eyed and open mouthed wonder. As the eclipse only lasts about three minutes—that is, in its totality, every second must be utilized; hence automatic machinery has been devised that would not be stopped by anything less sensational than an earthquake.

Secretary Shaw Interested.

Two notable expeditions will go from the United States. One of these is from the naval observatory at Washington. This will establish three stations, one in Labrador, one in Spain and one probably in northern Africa. The famous Lick observatory of California will also have three stations, one in Labrador, one in Spain and the third at Assouan, Egypt. In addition to these will be many smaller expeditions from various observatories in the country. Congress made an appropriation for the naval observatory, and Secretary Shaw lent it his assistance. Nor is he the only cabinet officer interested in reports are to be credited. No less a man than Secretary of State number of photographs in this brief time, but the astronomers are prepared for lightning-like execution. The United States naval observatory has been getting ready for two years. There is one sixty foot telescope to be used and others almost as large. On one of the instruments is a new style of lens that is considered an improvement over any lens ever used in a telescope before. There will be all sorts of timing apparatus. The photographic telescopes will be run by clockwork in such a way as not only to overcome the motion of the sun, but to throw the image at all times on a given stationary point.

Most Startling Phenomenon.

Even to the lay mind the phenomenon of a total eclipse is one of the most startling and spectacular in nature. As the deep, purple shadow approaches it looks like a palpable, substantial presence, rushing over the earth like some awful visitation from on high. No wonder the phenomenon in all ages has aroused the superstitious terror of the people. In the middle ages it was regarded as a sign of the end of the world. In all times it has been looked upon as an emblem of divine wrath. Savages have often been brought to submission by white men, who accurately foretold the coming of an eclipse. Even Columbus did not scruple to awe the natives into submission by such means, only he had to be contented with the milder spectacle of an eclipse of the moon.

Spectacle of a Lifetime.

The somdarkness on the earth has quite as much effect on birds and animals as on men. Chickens up to roost, while the rest of the brute creation, at first confused by the false night, finally seek their rest, only to be routed out a few minutes later by the gradually returning light. In the heavens the spectacle is one to be remembered a lifetime. Stars rush out suddenly, only to be swallowed up again as the moon's shadow passes. But the sun is never entirely blotted out. As though dispelling the comparatively little body that obscures him, he projects about it a circle of fire that now shoots out its streamers into space and now glows like a necklace of rubies. This corona often seems like an aurora borealis in midheaven. It has been a mystery to scientists, and it is to solve this mystery that such expensive and

MEET IN THE CAUSE OF PEACE

Interparliamentary Congress in Session at Brussels.

Brussels, Aug. 28.—An unusually large and representative delegation from the United States congress is here to attend the interparliamentary congress. The parliamentarians of Europe are also numerous represented.

Among the American members are Representatives Bartholdt of Missouri, president of the interparliamentary union, and Representatives Burke of North Dakota, Bates, Barchfield, Dickerman, Moon and Palmer of Pennsylvania, Boutell and Fuller of Illinois, Goldfogle and Waldo of New York, McNary of Massachusetts, Norris of Nebraska, William Alden Smith of Michigan, Shelden of Texas, Wood of New Jersey and Littlefield of Maine. Former Congressman Barrows of Massachusetts is also here.

The American group met and Representative Burke proposed the following resolution, which was adopted and called to President Roosevelt at Oyster Bay:

"Assembled in the cause of international arbitration, we send you hearty greetings and congratulate you upon your commendable and masterly effort in the cause of peace, which, regardless of the immediate results, has challenged the admiration of the world."

ARMIES ARE NOW IMMENSE.

Russian and Japanese Lines Extended Over Wide Area in Manchuria.

Gunguh Pass, Manchuria, Aug. 28.—Since the Japanese reconnoitered the Russian center about twenty-five or thirty miles on Aug. 10, which resulted in retaliatory skirmishing as well as the checking of a wide movement of considerable bodies of troops throughout three days, nothing important has occurred. During the long quiet there have been reinforcements to both sides, giving the theater of war a much changed appearance. The front has been greatly extended, made possible by the use of the wireless telegraph, and because of the unexampled size of the armies the character of the third stage of the war, whether it be active hostilities, demobilization or the garrisoning of contested territory, will be complicated.

The plan for the merger of the different Catholic military organizations was originated by Major General L. J. Kaganski of Quincy, Ill., commander-in-chief of the order.

CHAPTER XXVI.

WHEN William Armstrong awoke he thought he had overslept himself, for the tramping of horses sounded in the paved courtyard below. His window overlooked the stable yard, and he recognized the mumble of the hostler who had assisted him yesterday. He lay still, half drowsed, the mattress most alluring to him, when suddenly he was startled wide awake by a voice he knew.

"Then I turn to the left for Broughton?"

"Yes, sir," muttered the hostler.

Armstrong leaped from his bed, placed his eye at the chink in the shutters and peered down into the stable yard. The voice had not misled him.

De Courcy, sitting on a horse, was just gathering up the reins and departing. The Scot lost no time in pulling on his boots, pushing aside the bed, unbolting the door and making his way down the stairs. What did this gayly plumed bird of ill omen when his place was beside the king?

It looked like that. Once outside he saw it was still early, with the sun scarcely risen. He accosted the yawning hostler.

"Who was that man you were directing to Broughton?"

"I don't know, sir."

"When did he arrive?"

"Last night, sir, after dark."

"Did he stop in this house?"

"Yes, sir. I thought he was a friend of yours, for he knew your horse when I was putting up his own. He asked if you were here, and I told him you were in the room over the yard."

"What is Broughton—a hunter?"

"It is a castle, sir. Lord Say's castle, about three miles from here. General Cromwell is there now. It is his headquarters in this district."

The young man stood stock still, his eyes fixed on vacancy. What traffic had this king's chamberlain with Cromwell? How dared he come within the parliamentary lines undisciplined unless—like inspiration the whole situation flashed upon him. De Courcy knew the burden he carried and had seen where it was placed. He was on his way to sell his secret and set the troops on the track of the messenger. He must be off at once and out of the traitor. Before De Courcy had gone his "three miles" he would have traversed a dozen, and from then on it would be a race to the Scottish border.

"Is my horse fed?"

"Yes, sir."

"Get him out at once. I will arouse the others."

He took three steps toward the inn, then stopped as if shot, his hand clutching his breast.

"By heavens, he's got the thing it self! Robbed, as I'm a sinner!"

Now the disturbance in the night stood out clear in his memory, but he wasted not a thought over it. In upon the astonished hostler he swept.

"Never mind the saddle, fellow. Spring up behind me and show me the road to Broughton. Up, I say. The horse can carry a dozen like us. Here are two gold pieces for you. Guidance and a still tongue in your head are what I want."

Armstrong grasped the two pistols from the hostler, along the hesitating hostler upon the animal's back and leaped up in front of him.

"Which way, which way, which way?"

"Straight down the street, sir," rasped the terrified man, clasping the rider round the waist. "Now to the right, sir, and next to the left. That's it, sir. Up the hill. Ah, there's your man, jogging on ahead, leisurely enough, if it's him you seek."

"Right! Slip off, I can't stop!"

De Courcy, riding easily, as the man had said, wholly unconscious of pursuit or any reason for it, had disappeared into a hollow when Bruce, like a thunderclap, came over the crest and charged down upon him with the irresistible force of a troop of dragoons. The Frenchman, hearing too late the rumble of the hoofs, partly turned his horse across the road, the worst movement he could have made, for Bruce, with a war neigh, came breast on, maddened with the delight of battle, and whirled opposing horse and rider over and over like a cart wheel along the road from the hand of a smith.

De Courcy lay partly stunned at the roadside, while his frightened steed staggered to its feet, leaped the hedge, with a scream of fear, and scampered across the field to its farthest extremity. Armstrong swung himself to the ground with a quivering word to Bruce, who stood still, panting and watching every movement of his master. A pistol in each hand, Armstrong strode over to his victim.

"You better do, traitor and scoundrel, give me the king's commission."

"Sir, you have killed me," moaned De Courcy faintly.

"You bribed thief, the rope is yours end. You'll take no oath through honorable warfare. Disgorge!"

De Courcy, vaguely wondering how the other knew he carried it, drew from within his torn doublet the second commission signed by the king and handed it up, with a groan, to the conqueror.

As it was an exact duplicate of the one he had lost, even to the silken cord, the hostler had not the slightest doubt he had come by his own again, and the prove man was equally convinced that some one had betrayed to

Armstrong his secret mission, yet for the life of him could not guess how this was possible. The young man placed the document within its predecessor had been, then said to his victim:

"Had I a rope and a hangman with me you would end your life on yonder tree. When first I learned your character you were in some danger from my sword; a moment since you stood in jeopardy from my pistols. Beware our third meeting, for if you cross my path again I will strangle you with my naked hands if need be."

De Courcy made no reply. He realized that this was not a time for controversy. A standing man well armed has manifest advantages over an enemy bruised and on the ground, and some thought of this came to the mind of the generous victor now that his anger was cooling. So, whistling to his horse, he sprang on his back and rode to Banbury at a slower pace than he had traversed the same highway some minutes before.

"Ride upon my horse well while I am at breakfast," said Armstrong to the hostler, and receiving every assurance that the beast should get careful attention, he went to the inn and there found Frances awaiting him.

"Ah, my girl," he cried, "you have not slept well. I can see that at once. This will not do, never do at all. But you are certainly looking better this morning than you did last night. Is that not so?"

"You are looking very well," she said, avoiding his question.

"Oh, I've had a morning gallop already."

"What! With the ride to Scotland still before you. Is not a merciful man merciful to his horse?"

"He should be, but I may say this for Bruce—he enjoyed the ride quite as much as I did. And now I am ravenous for breakfast and eager for the road again." He tinkled a little hand bell that rested on the table.

The servant answered the tinkling bell, and Frances busied herself setting the housewife. She was convinced that he had as yet no knowledge of his loss and wondered when and where such knowledge would come to him. She hoped the enlightenment would be delayed until they were near the Scottish line or across it. Then she must tell him the truth at whatever cost to herself and persuade him, if she could, not to return. When she made her confession she would be in a position to relate all Cromwell had said to her; show him that the general had given orders which would block any backward move and reveal his determination to hang the Scot should he entangle himself further with English politics. Yet she had the gravest doubts that these dangers would influence him.

"These reflections troubled her until the time they were on their horses once more, when Armstrong interrupted them by crying out:

"Where's old John?"

"I sent him on ahead long since," replied Frances.

"Good! We shall soon overtake him. Goodbye!" he cried to the hostler, the one who had set him on the way in the attack on De Courcy.

"Good luck to you and your fair lady, sir," replied the old man, raising his cap in salute.

"Why are you so friendly with the man?" asked Frances.

"Oh, the hostler knows much about me," said Armstrong. "He sees secret comings and goings and draws his sage conclusions. Banbury! O Lord, I shall never forget Banbury! It is a place of mystery, the keeper of dark secrets and sudden rides, of midnight theft and of treachery. Ask the Broughton road, where Cromwell lies, to reveal what it knows. Things happen along that track which the king knows nothing of, and his royal signature takes journeys that he never counted upon."

"Heaven's pity! What do you mean?" moaned the girl, whitening to the lips. He laughed joyously, but checked himself when he saw the terrifying effect of his words on his companion. They were now clear of Banbury and trotting along the Coventry road. Their departure had met with no opposition, and they had seen not even a single soldier. The open country lay before them, the turrets of the town sinking in the rear.

"My foolish words have frightened you. Forget them! I am accumulating experiences that will interest you to hear when the time comes for the telling of them, but of one thing I am assured, the good Lord stands by his own, and he has shielded me since yesterday morning broke. Come, Frances, let us gallop. That and a trust in the Lord will remedy all the ills of man or woman."

She was glad of the respite, and they set off at full speed. Nevertheless her mind was sorely troubled. "What did he know, what did he know?" beat the thought in her brain in conjunction with the clatter of the horses' hoofs. It was not possible that chance had brought him to the very center of her guilty secret. Cromwell, treachery, midnight stealth, the Broughton road—these words and phrases tortured her. Was this, then, the line of his revenge? Did he know all, and did he purpose to keep her thus in suspense, hinting, soothing her fears, then reviving them, making her black crime the subject of jest and laughter? She cast a glance over her shoulder. Banbury had disappeared; they were alone, flying over the hand. The doubt was unbearable, she would endure it no longer. Impetuously she reined her horse to a stand. "Stop!" she cried, and at the word her own horse and Bruce halted and stood. The young man turned with alarm to her agitated face.

"What do you mean by your talk of Broughton and Cromwell?"

"Oh, that is a secret! I did not intend to tell you until our journey was ended, when we could laugh over it together."

"It is no laughing matter. I must know what you mean."

"All dangers are laughable once they are past. An unknown, unsuspected danger threatened me at Banbury. It is now past and done with, and the person who plotted against me can harm me no more. There are reasons why I do not wish to mention this person's name. Barring that, I may tell you now as well as another time, if you care to listen."

"Tell me the story, and I will tell you the name of the thief," said Frances.

"You slept badly last night. Did you hear anything?"

REPORT "SCOTTY'S" MINE FOUND

Prospectors Rush Into Death Valley to Seize Secret Treasure.

Goldfields, Nev., Aug. 28.—Walter Scott's mysterious mine in Death Valley, from which he drew the funds for his recent record-breaking trip across the continent, is reported to have been found, and a rush for the place is on. It is said to be 100 miles southeast of Lady mountain and in the Bull Frog mining district. It was identified by W. T. Miles, who found it not by rich ledges of ore, but by the large deposit of empty champagne bottles and a valise of old clothes containing papers with "Scotty's" name on them. It bore evidence of having been visited within the last three months.

Wales' Plans Not Changed.

London, Aug. 28.—The resignation of Lord Curzon, viceroy of India, has made no change in the programme laid down for the Prince of Wales' tour of India. The prince and princess will spend five months in various parts of the Indian empire.

OLD PEOPLE AND THEIR TROUBLES

Old People have more of the pains, aches and discomforts of life than do the young. This is perfectly natural, because their blood is not so vigorous, nor their powers of resistance so great, and troubles that a younger, healthy constitution could resist often afflict them.

During the civil war I contracted Catarrh and suffered with its effects for many years. I tried various remedies and doctors, but with no good result. One day I found one of your pamphlets and read it carefully. I decided S. S. S. was the medicine I was in need of and I began its use at once. My health was dreadful, and as I was getting older, I feared I should never be able to get well again. But after taking this great remedy for while I began to improve and soon found myself a strong, well man. I am now more than 75 years of age, but my health is as good as when I was 25. I feel that S. S. S. is a tonic and blood purifier, and I recommend it to those needing such a remedy.

JAPAN SECURES FURTHER DELAY

NEW PROPOSALS MAY BE MADE

All Hope of Peace Not Yet Abandoned by Those Who Hope to See the Sanguinary Struggle in the East at an End.

Tokio, Aug. 28.—A specially summoned council of the cabinet and elder statesmen is now in session discussing the latest final phases of the peace conference at Portsmouth.

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 28.—There is a persistent report that President Roosevelt has made a new appeal to the emperor of Japan.

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 28.—Minister Takahira, representing the Japanese commission, paid a personal visit to M. de Witte, the chief plenipotentiary of Russia, and asked if Russia had said her last word.

M. de Witte answered in the affirmative. He declared in the most positive language that his government would make no further concession beyond the division of Sakhalin; that it would never pay an indemnity nor reimburse Japan for the expense, or any part thereof, of the war.

Mr. Takahira then requested that the conference which had been arranged for today, and which had been desired to be the last meeting, be postponed until Tuesday. He explained that Baron Komura and himself desired time to receive further instructions from their governments.

Delays Shipwreck for Time.
By this move, the Japanese minister averted, temporarily at least, the shipwreck of the negotiations. There is no question that Minister Takahira took advantage of his conference with M. de Witte to ask the latter to explain the position of Russia and the possibility of any change occurring. It is not believed he was empowered to make any definite proposal, but that he was searching for a solution of the problem which is dividing the two commissions—that of indemnity—there is little doubt.

M. de Witte Confers With Aids.
For three-quarters of an hour the two plenipotentiaries were closeted together, the language employed being French, as M. de Witte speaks no English. Then Minister Takahira left, and M. de Witte at once sent for M. Pokotiloff, minister of Russia to China; M. de Planzon of the ministry of foreign affairs in St. Petersburg, who thoroughly knows the far east, and Prof. Martens, the Russian international law authority.

With these gentlemen M. de Witte conversed for some time, and then left the hotel for a walk. On his way out he met M. Siebert, second secretary of the Russian embassy in Washington, and gave him some instructions in Russian.

M. de Witte would not repeat the conversation which occurred between himself and Minister Takahira. He merely said the Japanese plenipotentiary had called to suggest an adjournment until Tuesday, because of the difference in time between Tokio and Portsmouth. Mr. de Witte's interpretation of the incident was that Japan desires to submit a new proposal. M. de Witte did not say so, but it is known that the statements of Minister Takahira were cabled to St. Petersburg.

TO GIVE LIFE FOR WIFE.

Brooklyn Man Offers Blood to Save Woman. He Loves.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 28.—"Take my blood, doctor, take all of it, if you will, and inject it into her veins. I am strong and healthy; my blood will save her, revivify; take it all; I am ready to die if she will live." So pleaded James Bailey, kneeling beside his wife's cot, holding her senseless hand in the Williamsburg hospital.

"Nothing will save her, Bailey," Dr. Dorn, the house surgeon, answered; "the end is very near."

Again and again Bailey, a labor leader, begged his unconscious wife to tell him how she received her hurts. When the surgeon pronounced her dead Bailey threw himself beside her, kissed her, and fainted.

Mrs. Mary Bailey, 35 years old, was found in the hall of her home Wednesday morning. Her skull was fractured and her head and face badly bruised. She never regained her senses. She fell down stairs, it is believed.

Dynamite Explosion Kills 20.
Manzanillo, Mexico, Aug. 28.—Twenty Mexican laborers were killed and a number injured by the premature explosion of a quantity of dynamite at the port works at Manzanillo.

While it is said that the explosion was the result of carelessness on the part of some of the laborers, the families of those killed have been indemnified by Col. Edgar K. Smoot, thezanillo port works.

Child Takes 40 Tablets; Dies.
Bloomington, Ill., Aug. 28.—Cassie, the 4-year-old child of L. A. White of Lisleworth, died from the effects of swallowing forty medicated tablets. A physician left the tablets to be given to the child one daily, but the child took the entire supply at one time.

Wanted Women to Resist.
An Irish judge stated that if any women were brought before him on a charge of slapping or scratching a man's face because he had attempted to kiss her he would at once dismiss the charge. He, however, only warned one shilling of damages against a man who had kissed a widow without getting scratched.

JAUNDICE.

Jaundice is known to physicians under the technical name of Icterus, and to all of the rest of mankind by the extreme yellowness of the skin. No matter what name it may be called, the general appearance of its victim is usually about the same in all cases. In fact, any disease which causes an obstruction to the proper flow of the bile through the ducts or suppresses the secretion of the bile so that it passes into the stomach or circulation, may be the cause of jaundice. Atrophy, or congestion of the liver, malaria, tumors, cancers, some forms of intestinal diseases and various other maladies may be the predisposing cause of the difficulty.

As a rule, the first notice one will make is a yellowness of the skin about the ears and in the whites of the eyes. The tongue is also yellow and digestion is disturbed. There is a bitter taste in the mouth, constipation is usually severe and the passages are nearly always clay-colored. In some cases diarrhoea may occur for a short time. The pulse rate is soon diminished and the volume of blood through the arteries is also reduced. The mind becomes melancholy. Both the perspiration and urine may be tinged yellow and a slight eruption appear on the skin. In severe cases of long duration, which have terminated fatally, there has been noted severe hemorrhages from the nose, stomach or bowels, while in other cases there was dark, bloody urine, delirium, convulsions or stupor.

In the home treatment of jaundice there is a simple and practical method of cure which is absolutely safe and harmless and at the same time is nearly always effectual and it is essentially the same as that which was given in my lecture upon "Cleansing the Skin" and "Pure Blood and Clear Skin" both of which should be carefully studied and followed if a complete and permanent cure is desired as well as to observe carefully the proper rules of diet. Coffee, tea and all kinds of alcoholic drinks must be absolutely forbidden. Exposure to extremes of either heat or cold must be avoided as well as all excesses of any kind. An abundance of stewed prunes, juicy fruits of nearly all kinds except pears, may be eaten freely. Lemonade as well as the juice of oranges and unfermented grape juice is excellent while water should be taken frequently and in abundance. In fact, the trouble is frequently caused by a lack of sufficient water and by its free use, according to the method described in the lectures referred to, a cure is brought about. Frequent bathing in warm water containing soda should be practiced, while the bowels should be kept open by the use of very thorough enemata, although in some cases, senna tea must be used. The following old-fashioned herb remedy will be found very good. One teaspoonful to be taken each night. Fluid extracts of bitter root and cascara, each one-half ounce, in syrup of ginger, seven ounces. Before each meal an infusion of golden-seal and peach leaves is advisable. In chronic cases a small amount of fluid extract of juniper may be added to the compound gentian syrup, to be taken three times a day.

CLUB NOTES.
Nebraska.—Dr. David H. Reeder, Laporte, Ind. Dear Doctor: Does kerosene have any bad after effect taken internally or used as a gargle? My mother has been taking it in small doses (a few drops on sugar once a day) at intervals the past year and she says it has helped a severe pain in the back of her neck and made her bowels and other abdominal organs better. There is no doubt she is much better and she says whenever the various conditions manifest themselves, she takes the kerosene for a few weeks and gets better right along.

Last winter when the children would begin to snuffle and cough at night with every indication of taking a heavy cold—I tried giving a few drops of kerosene on sugar and putting a drop or two up the nostrils and in most cases the symptoms would disappear by the next day. When my own head began to "stop up" I would gargle a small quantity, throwing it out through the nostrils and it would clear the head in a very short time and relieve soreness of the air passages. Its first effect seemed decidedly beneficial, and I would like to know whether any bad results would be liable to follow its use. Thanking you again for this special advice, and for the weekly benefits gained through regular lectures, I remain, very truly, Mrs. K. E.

Kerosene is not at all harmful when used in the manners described, if not used in excess and in too large quantities. It is a simple remedy and is just as good as one which would require time and expense to prepare.

Wisconsin.—Dr. David H. Reeder, Laporte, Ind. Dear Doctor: Please tell me if there is any danger from the use of jelly made from the sarsaparilla berries? Also the jelly made from the elder berries? Also what is the cause and a cure of dark red blotches appearing on the face where the beard grows, that remain for a few days and then disappear, not always appearing in the same place? Very respectfully, S. E.

Jelly made from sarsaparilla should be used quite sparingly. If at all, as it possesses medicinal qualities which effect changes in the blood. It is called a mildly alterative remedy for blood diseases, and, particularly, beneficial for scrofulous patients. Elder berries may be used freely although the medicinal effect is marked, both upon the bowels and kidneys, more especially the latter. Both of these good old-fashioned herb remedies would be good for the person who suffers with the dark red blotches upon the face after shaving. As the trouble is probably due to poor circulation as well as some impurities of the blood, the face should be bathed in witch-hazel extract after shaving.

Colorado.—Dr. David H. Reeder, Laporte, Ind. Dear Sir: As my husband is a subscriber to this paper, I have been a constant reader of the Home Health Club department and not long ago saw an account of "Plantain" leaves helping women at certain ages, but it did not explain very fully. Will you please tell us just how it should be used? When it should be picked, and size of dose, how often to take it, etc., and oblige. Very respectfully, Mrs. T. V.

In the use of plantain, one must use good judgment and each one must experiment to some extent. I have frequently given the formula for making infusions of all kinds from various herbs, which is one ounce of the herbs to one pint of water, steeping usually for about half an hour. The dose or nearly all infusions will vary from a teaspoonful to two or three dessert spoonfuls, three or four times daily. A dose of the tincture varies from five drops to 15 drops. It is a popular remedy for all kinds of hemorrhages and the bruised leaves are excellent for burns, bruises, stings of insects, bites of mosquitoes, etc. It is also remarkably efficacious in poisons of all kinds. An old negro now living in the south obtained his freedom by disclosing a nostrum for the bites of snakes, the basis of which was plantain. It consisted in giving the expressed juice of plantain and horehound, equal parts; a tablespoonful to be repeated as often as the stomach would bear, and the same to be applied to the wound. The plantain is, like most herbs, best when in blossom. I would like to have some one who has used the herb extensively, write a full description of their method for Club Notes.

Washington.—Dr. D. H. Reeder, Laporte, Ind. Dear Doctor: I have always been greatly interested in the Home Health Club department in our paper, and would like to ask you a few questions about whooping cough. How long does it take after one has been exposed, before he will take it? At what stage of the whooping cough does it become contagious? How does it become so? Can it be caught from the clothing? Kindly give us a simple home remedy for it. Sincerely yours, P. D. E.

The disease has a period of incubation of from four to 14 days, that is, one may come down with it at any time from four to 14 days, after being exposed. It would become contagious at any time after the inflammatory condition of the throat is noted. The best medical works admit that there has never been found any specific germ which would be declared guilty of carrying the disease and in the absence of any positive knowledge to be obtained from books, I don't object to saying that I believe it is communicated from one to another by the moisture thrown out from the throat while coughing. For this reason it may be carried in the clothes by one who does not have it, to a child who soon afterward comes in contact with the exposed clothing.

The simplest and safest home remedy is Kali. Mur. and Mag. Phos. six ounces of the tissue elements. The former for the accumulation of the thick white phlegm and the latter to overcome the spasmodic cough. The two remedies should be given alternately about three times each, daily.

All readers of this publication are at liberty to write for information pertaining to the subject of health. All communications should be addressed to the Home Health Club or Dr. David H. Reeder, Laporte, Ind., and should contain four cents in postage and name and address in full.

Churches Turned Into Inns.
At Great Easton, three miles from Rockingham Station, England, there is a Wesleyan chapel which is now an inn. When built a stone was placed over the entrance with the words inscribed: "To the Glory of God," and the inscription still remains over the portal of the licensed premises. At Newcastle-under-Lyme a chapel was built in 1849, in the time of the Wesleyan reform movement, which after a time became too small, and a larger building some distance away was bought from the Wesleyans, the smaller one being sold. After passing through various hands the former building is now a licensed house and a music hall.

No Joke About This.
"See here," said the client, "you've charged me so much for handling this suit that I'll have to put a mortgage on my farm. Can't you help me out a little?"

"Yes, I guess I can," replied the enterprising lawyer. "Tell you what I'll do. I'll draw up the mortgage at half rates."—Houston Post.

DEDICATION VERY LARGELY ATTENDED.
Special Services at English Lutheran Church Attracted—Rev. Christy on Vacation.

Three hundred and fifty people or more attended the special services of dedication and communion at St. Peter's English Evangelical Lutheran church yesterday morning. The sermon of Rev. Frick, D. D., of Milwaukee on the topic, "The Divine Renewal Applied to Your Sanctuary and to Your Own Soul and Body," was particularly strong and greatly appreciated by the audience. All were pleased with the appearance of the church and the newly consecrated house of worship will be an inspiration to the members of the congregation. Rev. Christy, whose services since his call to the Janesville pulpit some eighteen months ago have been unbroken by any absence, left this morning on a two weeks' vacation. He will spend his time at his home in Dayton, Ohio, and visiting friends in western Pennsylvania. Rev. Andra, western field secretary of the church, will fill the pulpit next Sunday evening and either preach the following Sunday night or secure a pastor. No morning worship will be conducted during Rev. Christy's stay from the city.

TO PLAY IN GOLF FINALS TOMORROW.
Leo Brownell and Al. Schaller Will 'Contest for Richardson Medal, and Ladies' Finals Will Be Decided.

In a contest which lasted until the 25th hole and was completed in the rain, Al. Schaller yesterday morning defeated Colin C. MacLean in the semi-finals for the Richardson medal. This is the longest run on record at the local grounds. At the close of the first nine hole round Schaller had MacLean 3 down. At the eighteenth hole the contestants were even. Leo Brownell won his match last week and will meet Mr. Schaller in the finals on the links tomorrow afternoon. The finals for ladies will also be played tomorrow by Mrs. A. J. Harris and Miss Elizabeth Schlicker. If the weather is propitious it is expected that a large number of spectators will witness the play. Leo Brownell's game has been so good this year that there is believed to be a good chance for him to win. The contest will be a close one.

Whether or Not the Ferrari Shows Are to Come Here Next Week May Be Settled Tonight.

Last night the Fraternal Order of Eagles held a meeting to consider the project of a street carnival. Sentiment favored the plan and a committee with power to act, consisting of the following persons was appointed: Thomas McKeigue, William Sager, Edward Amerpohl, J. J. Cunningham, and J. C. Nichols. Up to 3:30 this afternoon no definite decision had been arrived at, the matter of obtaining the right to use the streets being the principal difficulty. The council does not meet until next week Monday evening when the show, if it comes here, plans to open. Mr. Hardy of the Ferrari shows will have his last conference with the committee this evening.

TROOPS SENT AGAINST MINERS.

Three Companies Dispatched to Restore Order Between Union and Nonunion Workmen.

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 28.—Seven companies of the Third regiment, state troops, acting under orders issued by Gov. John I. Cox at Nashville, left Harrison, Tenn., for Tracy City to quell the disturbance there caused by conflicts of union and nonunion miners, that are the direct outgrowth of the assassination of two miners at Tracy City last week.

Gov. Cox ordered out the state troops at the request of the sheriff of Grundy county, who stated that he was unable to maintain peace. It is feared that the arrival of the troops may result in a clash, as the feeling is high. Gov. Cox had intended addressing the miners Sunday to urge peace, but was advised against doing so.

Forced Sale to Settle Estate

2080 acres ranch tract in Dunn County, North Dakota, must be sold in a bunch to settle the estate of the late D. M. Stewart.

This land is in Township 143 of Range 94, in what is known as the Knife River country. The river passes through the land and affords a perpetual water supply. The land is well grassed and coal of a fine quality underlies several portions of it. There are exposures of coal along the Knife River and at two different places in the township. Soil is good and suitable for cultivation. This is one of the most prosperous parts of North Dakota, as the deposits of the settlers in the banks at Taylor, Dickinson and Gladstone will show. 1600 acres of land adjoining this land was sold last season at $10.00 an acre, and I offer this for a quick deal at $4.50 an acre. This is a snap for an investment but won't last long.

This land is in a locality where money can be made in farming and ranching. The large ranches are being broken up, except where the parties own the lands they use, and many settlers are coming into the county and large crops of wheat, oats, rye, barley, flax, millet and vegetables are being grown. O. P. Ziner, whose land adjoins the tract here offered, accumulated over $60,000 in the past 12 years, and his brother, Paul, whose place is two miles distant, has done equally as well. Both went there as penniless boys at the time.

The Banker farm, immediately south of this land, is one of the best in western North Dakota. $4000 cash will handle this deal. For further particulars write or call on

The railroad sued for $140,000. The jurors decided that $40,000 was represented by merchandise in transit and the city should not be held responsible for this. But they held that the city could not escape financial liability for the failure of the authorities to curb the mobs and prevent the burning of the cars.

Railroads Got Strike Damages.
Chicago, Aug. 28.—A jury in Judge Frost's court in Wheaton on Saturday brought in a verdict of $100,000 against the city in favor of the Panhandle railroad. This amount represents, in the opinion of the jury, the damage done the road by the burning of its freight cars in the A. R. U. strike riots.
